

All these years I've been a member of The Club and I never saw how easy it is to dip into The Club's till. And I did, too. No, this is not some blithering confession about a heinous crime that I committed. In fact, I'm so dumb I didn't realize that I even embezzled Club funds. And it wasn't even my fault.

Yassee, I had two savings accounts at the same bank where The Club has its account. One savings account was mine, but the other belonged to daughter #2. But that's a whole 'nother story. Anyway, she wanted her money and on a Friday afternoon, I went to the branch to get a cashier's check and to close the account. Of course, a mere teller can't do this. It has to be handled by a manager.

So, he calls up my account information on his computer and sees my business checking and my two savings accounts. I tell him which one to draw the funds from and close. No problem, and he goes to the teller area to get the cashier's check. I wait.

He comes back with the check, and announces that I no longer qualify for free banking as my remaining savings account is below their minimum. OK, I says, how much below? He tells me "600 bucks". "No problem", says I. "Just transfer 600 from my business/checking account into my savings". And he does. He gives me two receipts, one for the closed account with its account number on it, and a second receipt showing the $600 transfer. But there's no account number saying where the 600 came from. I figure, hey, the guy's a manager, it's his bank, he must know what he's doing. I left.

On Saturday, I accessed my accounts over the internet. I see that the 600 bucks got parked in my savings. But it does not show that it came out of my checking account. Same on Sunday. So, on Monday, I call the guy. "Where'd the 600 come from?", I ask. "I took it out of your non-profit business checking account", he says. "Well, it's been a bad year for my biz, but I don't like to think of myself as a non-profit." He says, "Yeah, right here, account number suchandso." "That's not my account. What's the name on it?", I ask. He says, "The Mopar Club."

Well, I got it straightened out and called our Treasurer, Benny G., to let him know what happened.

But you might want to keep this in mind when election for officers comes up. It's easier than you think.

JAN 2011

A new decade!!!

Y'r Ed'tr did not attend any shows in January, 'umbly or otherwise. The Club's members not only attended car shows and races, but hosted two major shows, as well, so here's a look back at some of the activities from 2010:

In March a lot of Clubmembers, including these guys, were at Mopars At The Strip.

Below: In June several Clubmembers and their families including the Clan VanderSchaaf got free entry to the Del Mar Fair for showin' off their car.

Below: the Club's big event, The All-American Car Show netted $7500 for the USO & Homefront of San Diego.

February was the Big 3 Swap Meet. It was more like the Big Deluge.

Right: In June at the Greatest Show On Turf Carl Parrick & daughter Leanne took Best Costume That Matched Their Car, while Jim Signorelli congratulated Cathy Jamieson for her Camaro taking 1st Place in Modern Muscle Car over Jim's Challenger.

HemiBoy & Dave Lancaster at Mopars at Chula Vista Cruise Nite.

Mike Mattern was host for the BBQ after our Club Cruise in April.

Y'r Prez Larry Johnson & 1st Lady Debbie took Top Muscle Car at the Classic Chevy Show at the Embarcadero.

In September The Mopar Club supplied the man & the woman power for the two-day car show during FleetWeek's SpeedFest at North Island Naval Air Station.

for the fun of it...

(Part 3)

Our all-consuming interest in Mopars has resulted in restorations of classics, cruisers, beaters, and even new cars. Some of these cars even get raced every so often. But there is a special category of Mopars that we all appreciate, even if we don't own one: dedicated race cars. Here's another look at just some of the single-purpose cars that are owned, driven and/or built by members of The Mopar Club of San Diego.

Above: Clubmember Bill Ruhlman like to go fast, but not necessarily in a straight line. To go around corners, Bill put together this black Viper road racer. It features an enormous rear wing and a radical front splitter. Not to mention a lovely Viper V-10 under the hood.

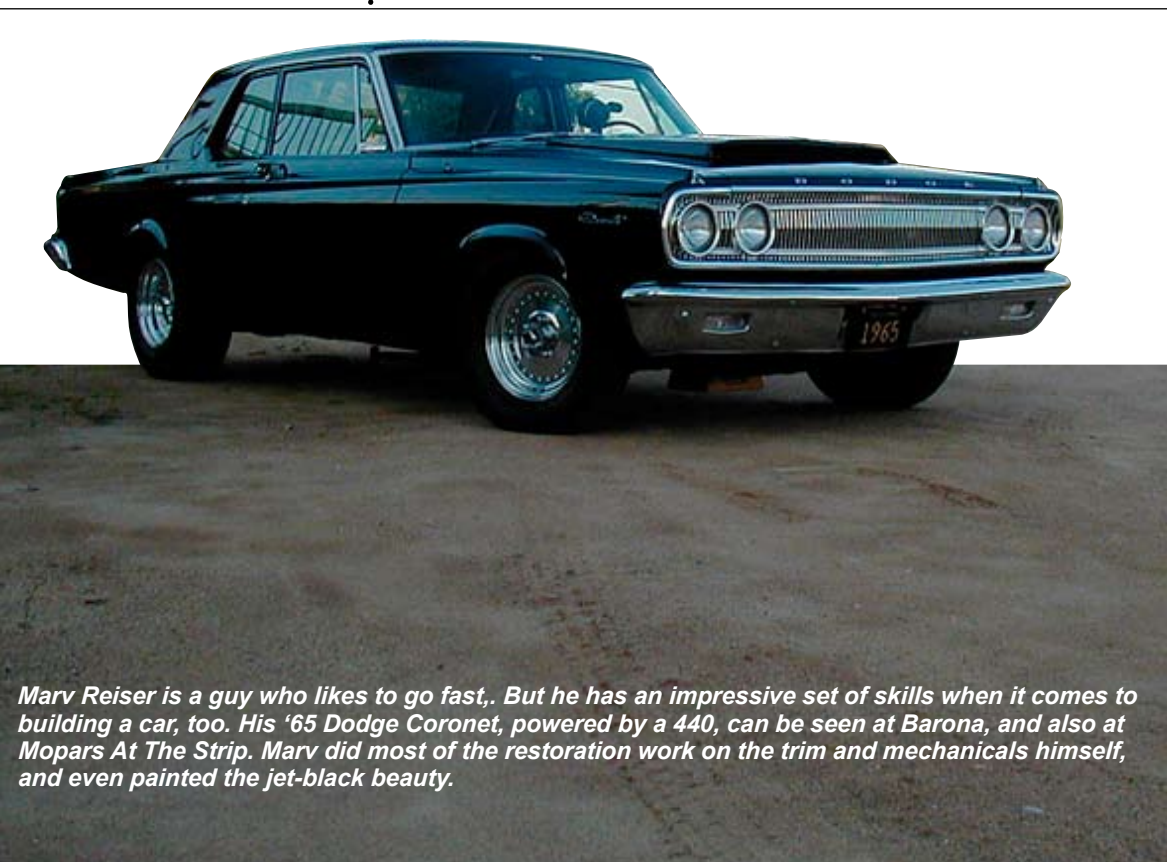

Below: And Bill has always loved the lines of the second generation Valiant, and he's built this bright yellow stroker small block beast for serious straight line speed. The fabrication puts show cars to shame and with Steve Williams advice, the parts are top notch.

Left: Clubmember Pat Borovicka has made a science out of running his 440/6Pak powered Dodge Coronet faster and faster. He's modified the B-body from its frame and suspension to the trans and torque converter, to the electrical system and who knows how many changes to the engine. Well, Pat can tell ya. He keeps meticulous records of each incremental change over the years. Pat runs the car against his buddies in Vintage S/S, and they have dubbed the car "The Red Sled". Joel Miner has come up with some graphics for the fenders.

Below: That's Ted Montano lifting the front end on his stroker small block Duster in Las Vegas. This run was a little too adventurous and caused some damage to the pan and front end. Originally built by John Boville, Ted, with John's help, has been running some serious speed.

Marv Reiser is a guy who likes to go fast,. But he has an impressive set of skills when it comes to building a car, too. His '65 Dodge Coronet, powered by a 440, can be seen at Barona, and also at Mopars At The Strip. Marv did most of the restoration work on the trim and mechanicals himself, and even painted the jet-black beauty.
